Clémence Prosen is a Franco-Irish visual artist, designer, and calm-living advocate. Working in oils, watercolours, and digital illustration, she draws deeply from Ireland's serene landscapes, rich heritage, and timeless artistic traditions.

A self-taught artist, she rediscovered painting in 2014 as a way to create stillness within a demanding 15-year corporate career. In 2021, she transitioned fully into her art practice. Her work has been exhibited at the Red Stables, Signal Arts, Grá Gallery, Berkeley Gallery, and more.

Her studio at Ardgillan Castle is open year-round to the public.

Today, her practice combines fine art with heritage-inspired design. She creates Celtic letter prints inspired by the Book of Kells, as well as Irish heritage collections, including county maps, traditional road-sign prints, and landmark illustrations that celebrate Ireland's history, culture, and sense of place. Her work aims to honour the beauty of the Irish landscape and the stories carried through its symbols and traditions.

Through her work, Clémence hopes to inspire people to slow down, reconnect with the land around them, and discover beauty and meaning in the small, quiet moments of everyday life.
